

SOCIETY.

Arranging Alumni Dance.

The committee in charge of the High School Alumni dance held its first meeting last evening in the offices of Dr. Walter N. Goldsmith. The committee is composed of Dr. Goldsmith, Fred Fisher, Clifford Edwards. The dance will be held Thanksgiving Eve, November 30, and will be one of the leading affairs of the present season. The committee last night laid preliminary plans that will be developed at future sessions. Surprises Party at Mutual.

A surprise party was held at the home of John S. Trivett at Mutual, from 5 to 10 o'clock Friday. Those present were as follows: Wilbur Cole, Brownsville, Carl Wagner, Charles Edwards, Edward Fisher, Charles Edwards, Lawrence O'Brien, Charles Harkness, Mary Cole Magdo Zimmerman, Margaret O'Brien, Thelma Stout, Lucy Stout and Marie Weaver, all of Mutual, and Harry Bell of Lamber-ton.

A Ten Cent Tea.

Mrs. S. S. Marsteller is hostess at a ten cent tea this afternoon in the Methodist Protestant church. The affair is one of a series of similar events, which have been arranged by the women of the church. The O'ward Class of the Sunday school has been sewing for the past week or so and this afternoon their work will be shown.

Endeavors Meet.

The regular monthly business and social meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society was held last evening at the home of J. J. Smith on Cedar avenue. The meeting was largely attended and was opened with the regular business session. A social session and refreshments followed.

Woman's Day Program.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the United Brethren church is arranging an interesting program to be rendered next Sunday evening when Women's Day will be observed in the church.

Teachers' Musical.

The Teachers' Musical and Violin Recital of the Mount Pleasant Institute takes place Thursday, October 12, at 7:30 P. M., at the First Baptist Church. Mt. Pleasant Friends of music are cordially invited.

To Meet in Church.

The semi-monthly meeting of the L. C. B. A. will be held this evening in the basement of the Immaculate Conception church.

WHAT OLD FOLKS NEED.

Some Are Younger at 65 Than Others Are at 40 Years.

So many people begin saying "Well, I'm getting old now," about the time they reach 60, and then let themselves get old—and the fact is they could stay young for a long time, in all but years.

We have seen men and women of 65 who were really younger than some are at 40 years; were more active and more up to date in everything.

When your energy begins to fall build yourself up with our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, Vinol, which is a wonderful tonic and strengthener for all weak persons.

A Gentleman of Allentown, Pa., says: "I am 75 years of age and find Vinol a great medicine. It is wonderfully strengthening and comforting to me." (Name on request.)

Thousands of feeble old people have found Vinol to be just what they need to revive their flagging strength. We guarantee it to please—money back if it does not.

Griffin & Company, Druggists, Connelville, Pa. Vinol is sold in West State, Connelville, by Fred H. Harnmen, Druggist.

Judging a Man.

EVERYBODY with whom you have financial transactions will esteem you more highly, if you pay personal business and household expenses, by drawing your own personal checks. ## Serious Revolt in Central China

United Press Telegram. PEKIN, Oct. 11.—A revolution of the most formidable proportion has broken out in the central province of Nipoh. Wu Chang, the capital, is in the hands of the rebels, and the great commercial city of Hankow is threatened. The victory has fled and the government troops have deserted. Unlike most Chinese uprisings, the present movement is well organized and is being led by some of the most progressive men in China.

The city of Wu Chang and Hangchow face each other across the Yangtze-Kiang river. They have a population of more than a million and a half. Four is felt for the safety of 25 American missionaries known to have been in Wu-Chang when it was captured.

Fred Bernard in the City

Fred Bernard, a member of the Davis Stock Company at the Grand theatre, Pittsburg, is a Connelville visitor today, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Doyle, Apple street. Mr. Bernard is playing his first season in the Davis Stock Company, which has among its membership the pick of the theatrical profession. In past seasons he has been a member of a number of star companies playing in Chicago and New York.

Mr. Bernard and Mr. Doyle are old acquaintances. The former is a member of the Chicago Lodge of Elks in which he takes an active interest. He is also prominent in the Knights of Columbus in Chicago.

A BIG MORTGAGE

Drawn by Frick Company in Favor of River Coal Company.

The largest mortgage ever filed in Washington county has just been placed on record, the face of the instrument being for $15,000,000. The mortgage is drawn by the H. C. Frick Coke Company in favor of the Union Trust Company, of Pittsburg, trustee, and secures the payment for the extensive coal holdings of the Pittsburg Coal Company and the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke Company, which have been taken over by the Frick company, a subsidiary concern of the United States Steel Corporation.

According to the terms of the mortgage, its face will be secured by 15,000 bonds of face value of $1,000 each, paying an annual interest of five per cent. The sum is underwritten by the Steel Corporation. The first payment will be made in July 1915 and will be of $600,000. Additional payments of $600,000 will be made up to and including July 1, 1916.

Part of the acreage which changes hands lies in Washington county, but purchases including the Maple Creek, Shaw, Brown Fifth Pool, Fox, Vest, Exchange, Holmes, Mingo and New Eagle fields. The rest of the acreage lies in the townships of Luzerne, Jefferson, Franklin, Redstone and Mendenhall, in Fayette county also.

RAILWAYS TAKE OVER EXPRESS

This is Recommendation Made by National Railroad Commissioners. WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—That the railways of the country take over the express companies' business was recommended yesterday to the twenty-third annual convention of the National Association of Railroad Commissioners in session here by the committee on express rates and express services. There was prolonged discussion of the committee's report, which was the only business before the convention yesterday.

"The express and railway companies" said the report, "are engaged in performing a transportation service that one company could perform just as effectively if not more so. The fact is that the railways could probably assume the handling of both the heavier commodities and the lighter packages at a lower cost and with greater satisfaction than the express companies to the public. Their present organization is nearly complete enough for this."

Former Pastor in Town. Rev. W. H. Gladden, a former pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, and Mrs. Gladden were in town this morning on their way to Broad Ford to visit friends. Rev. and Mrs. Gladden are now located at Mountaineer, Pa. For the past several days they have been visiting Rev. and Mrs. T. M. Gladden of Dunbar. They will return home tomorrow.

Mrs. Krepps Will Report. The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. of Mt. Pleasant will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sue Colburn at Mt. Pleasant. Mrs. Frank Krepps, a delegate to the annual State convention held recently, will give her report. All members are urged to be present.

Identifies Negro. WEST CHESTER, Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Lewis Harmon, the Connettsburg negro arrested here last evening on a charge of assaulting 15-year-old Anna McElhenny near Coopers town, south of Connettsville, was fully identified as her assailant by the girl when she faced him today.

Wants, for rent, for sale, etc., cost only one cent a word.

COAL CONCERNS SCORED.

Supreme Court Asked to Stop Violations of Anti-Trust Law.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Action by the Supreme Court of the United States to stop alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust law by the principal railroads and coal companies in the Pennsylvania anthracite coal region, was urged yesterday by J. C. McKeen, special assistant to the attorney general, in a three-hour argument before the tribunal.

He was followed by Everett Warren, counsel for one of the defendants, the Temple Iron Company. Tomorrow Attorney General Wickersham is expected to address the court in regard to the application of the Sherman law to the facts in the case, and John G. Johnson, the noted Philadelphia corporation lawyer, and others will defend the corporations attacked.

In the Labor World. In Melbourne, Australia, facing the public garden, and immediately in front of the legislative hall, there stands a gigantic memorial pillar erected by the working people in commemoration of the adoption of the eight-hour law.

There is a powerful movement in Germany, headed by Frauella Pauline Werner, to require all girls, regardless of station, to do compulsory domestic service, just as the young men are required under the law to do compulsory military service.

Ammonia Explosion Causes Fire. FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—The bursting of an ammonia tank caused a fire here today at the Jureks Oil Company's plant. Four thousand barrels of crude oil and burning and the property loss is about $25,000. Roy O'Neil, a workman, was badly injured.

Rally Day Sunday. Rally Day will be observed Sunday by the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school. An effort is being made to have the attendance the largest in the history of the school.

TO TEST LAND.

In the Vicinity of Ruffsdale for Coal and Minerals.

RUFFSDALE, Oct. 11.—Three thousand acres of coal land for testing is the mark set by farmers of South Huntingdon and Sewickley townships, who are organizing to have drills made throughout their holdings to learn their mineral wealth.

Officers to head the project were elected some time ago and a second meeting will be held tomorrow. The plan is to have all the farmers in that section, who have not had their land tested, combine and secure a driller to bore extensively through the veins underlying their land. The aim of the farmers is to have enough data that it will warrant the assessment for drilling to fifty cents per acre of land.

So far, the officers of the organizing farmers have secured men whose earnings total about 1,500 acres, but they want to double that amount before making the move to secure the drill.

Low Rate to Pittsburg. Every Thursday via P. & J. E. R. R. account of Pittsburg Exposition. $1.75 round trip. Tickets good to return Saturday following date of sale.

Fifty Years Ago Today.

Oct. 11.

Prospective scarcity of cotton led to the increased culture of fax and introduction of machinery for the production of fax cotton.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today. Wholesale arrests of anarchists were made in Chicago.

The first statue to a woman, except those of queens, that had been erected in England was that unveiled at Walsall of Sister Dora (Miss Dorothy Pattison).

PERSONAL

Miss I. W. Bollinger of Greenwood is visiting at her former home in Beaver Falls for 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gillman of Litchfield have returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bolson. Mrs. M. S. Little and Mrs. J. H. Fredrick and son, Jack J., of Pittsburg have returned home after a visit with Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Utz of Main street.

It's good luck to those who take advantage of that Hard Luck Sale at Dunn's, Friday, 15th. Mrs. Theodore Marletta of Ohio has returned home after a visit with relatives in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hostetler of Ohio were Connelville visitors this morning.

JOHN WILLIAMS DEAD

Resident of Ruble and a Veteran of the Civil War.

John Williams, aged 71 years, died at his home at 330 yesterday afternoon at Ruble, after a few days' illness. Mr. Williams fought in the Civil War, being a member of Co. B, 11th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry. He was born at Springfield Furnace, where he spent the early part of his life. He was married twice, his first wife being Julia Shuff. Of that union one daughter, Mrs. William Lewis of near Fairchance survives. Later he was married to Mary A. Jenkins, who has nine children, survive.

They are Mrs. Anna Victor, John R. Williams, Uniontown; Mrs. B. F. Darby, Fairchance; Mrs. J. H. Davis, James A. Williams, Smithfield; Mrs. R. J. Bryson, Pembroke, Kan.; and Jennie, Frances and Georgia, at home. Two sisters also survive, Mrs. L. B. David, Springfield; Mrs. Anna Beale of Waukon, Iowa. The funeral services will be held at the late home Thursday at 2 o'clock, with interment at the Smithfield cemetery.

HE TOOK A CHANCE

And Now Mourns the Loss of Securities Worth Thousands.

"Oh well, I'll take a chance," a Pittsburg man said, when urged to put his valuable papers in a Safe Deposit Vault. He took the chance. Just to have the trifling expense of a safe deposit box he left his valuables in an ordinary office safe, and a few weeks later, a thief looted that safe of securities worth thousands of dollars. This is not a fairy story but the absolute truth. What happened to him may happen to anyone whose valuables are not in Safe Deposit. Better go to the Safe Deposit Department of The First National Bank of Connelville today and place your valuables where neither fire nor thieves can touch them.

Rosenbaum Company

GIVE US GREEN TRADING STAMPS—ASK FOR THEM—
"Greater Pittsburg's Busiest Store"

The growth of this store is so rapid that it has attracted attention all over the country. You are only interested in this fact on the ground that a store that is growing so rapidly must have extraordinary merit. When next in Pittsburg, make it a point to visit us.

The new Millinery is charming. The Women's and Children's Outer Apparel Stores are among the largest and best in the country. The Men's Clothing Store is headquarters for Stein-Block Clothes. The Curtain Store is a place of great value. The best Underwear in the country is here. We guarantee all our hosiery at 25c per pair and over. And so on through all the departments—each doing its part better.

We give S. & H. Stamps with all cash purchases—double stamps on Tuesdays and Fridays from 8 till 11 A. M. We deliver when desired, all purchases free within 30 miles of Pittsburg. Also we prepare freight express charges on all purchases of $5 or over to within 500 miles of Pittsburg.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY. It builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" is only seeking to make the little more profit realized on the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 31 stamps for the cloth bound. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

CHALLENGE SALE

A Tremendous Irresistible Price Lowering Occasion
Forcibly Emphasizing the Value Giving Supremacy of this Store.

This is the First Challenge Sale Inaugurated in Fayette County. We Are a New Firm With the Largest Store in the County. We Are and Must Be Progressive.

To tell you that this is one of the epoch-making events of this store is to speak but lightly of a sale that really has no parallel in this section of the country. We know that statement appears big but we tell you that every word of it can be rightly compared with it. Not only is the quantity of merchandise involved larger than any we've ever before offered, but the values in every instance surpass all others.

The movement includes many special purchases in addition to our own regular stocks. Prices have been cut without regard to value or cost. In many instances the reductions are far below the wholesale cost. And in every case remarkable savings can be effected.

The price knife has been wielded recklessly. This Challenge Sale will at once reach a commanding position by the very power and the purpose of this event. It presents to the prudent purchaser an opportunity to save which comes but once in a very, very great while.

Sale Starts Saturday, October 14th. Doors Open 9 A. M. Sharp.

THE REFORMATION
OF THE OFFICIAL ORGAN.

The Connelville News charges that the primary ballot was introduced in a certain ward in Connelville by the election officers permitting a man to vote who was not a resident of Connelville.

We are not advised as to the ward, the election officer or officers, the name of the person, the name of the ward worker who voted his ticket, or the candidates for whom he voted, but if the charge be true it was a grievous affront against the integrity of the ballot. It was not, however, the first offense of the kind which has occurred in Connelville primary politics. In fact, the fault is common in some wards, and they are not all Republican wards.

Similar charges have been made frequently and made concerning the primaries in the "Bloody Third," when the polling place was next door to The News office and when that paper was a dominating force in its election machinery.

But it is pleasure to note that The News has come out bravely for Ballot Reform and is mounting the platform of Pure Politics recently constructed by our eloquent friends from Greene county, Jesse Hook Wine.

The only thing that worries us in the fear that it will fall off the platform the next time the Political Interests which it serves needs its assistance on the solid earth of Practical Politics.

The Jews have their holidays at more seasonable periods than the Christians. Christmas and New Year are chilly propositions as a rule.

The startling announcement is made that George Smith may become a Pirate, but then he lived in Uniontown a season.

The railroads are talking of taking over the express business. The only wonder is that they didn't do so long ago. They have always had it in their power to take it. The contracts do not run forever.

The Morgan Valley is pushing the Klondike in the heyday of its existence and virgin Greene county is beginning her career as a coke producing section. We toward the course of coke empire takes it way.

It has been discovered that there is a gigantic conspiracy to drive Senator "Billy" Loring out of Illinois politics, and it is suspected that the Official Organ is scheming to drive some Connelville people out of Fayette politics. This seems to be a driving age.

Basketball is reported to be going up fast. It perhaps has the popular aviation fever.

The Connelville basketball fans put their faith to a dark horse.

The railroads are still raising wages and the Interstate Commerce Commission is still overruling cuts. Both wages and rates should be equitable and reasonable. The trouble with both of them is that they have not been adjusted. The Democratic tariff revision, on horizontal lines.

Clarkburg gets a new D. & O. station. The D. & O. makes its money in the Pittsburgh and Connelville districts and spends it in Baltimore and West Virginia.

The Western Maryland's claim agent is already doing business along the Connelville connection.

Brownsville has been caught red-handed in the banking business of operating baseball pools. Some time since a police officer discovered there. Brownsville is reported to be slow, but there are not lacking evidences that it is getting a swifter kick on its late and blunder days.

John Albert Berkley won the Republican nomination for Judge in Somerset county by the margin of 100 votes. He is 15. The figures will afford the pessimists room for argument, but John Albert Berkley is a politician. A man who is in politics to win seldom gets scared at anything intangible and impracticable.

Not content with being burned out, Scottdale's trying to blow himself up.

The announcement that the official basketball game is to be the first official order to play ball, but Connelville's headquarters are not yet constructed. We trust this will not delay the game.

We note with interest that Mutual had a surprise party. It must have been Mutual.

It begins to look as if the Trustees were in politics without their aid or consent.

The Anthracite Coal Trust is being routed by the Attorney General of the United States. This is hot stuff.

The purchase by the H. C. Frick Coke Company of the coke plant and the coke plants of the Pittsburgh Coke Company has been fully consummated by the recording of an $18,000,000 mortgage in Fayette county. All doubts concerning this transaction are now solved. It's a matter of record.

The chestnut blight may be on the way, but it hasn't arrived in that particular portion of Fayette county known as the Chestnut Ridge.

Autumn parties are in order.

A Memphis man was shot for trying to smother a street cat. The regulation of feline's decrees by the strong hand is dangerous.

SILVER BELL.

By Isaac of Yukon.

Silver Bell was the name of a Ponce Indian girl who was taken from her parents and educated at an eastern school. After she graduated, she returned home to let her influence shine. She thought the best way to use her influence was to concentrate her power on one Indian at a time, so she married Thunder Gust.

Thunder Gust was a brave who delighted in wearing an eagle's feathers and a government blanket for an evening dress coat. He had learned to play three-card monte on the revolving lines at the military station and had become a heroic whiskey taster. Card playing was a dull enterprise because his money soon vanished. Fire water could be had by doing short turns of work.

Silver Bell vaccinated her husband to cure him of gambling and placed tinless powder in his cortex to cure him of drinking. He made several breakers but Silver Bell cured him and he settled down to work and did well.

In ten years, Thunder Gust owned a splendid farm and was setting out a vineyard. He attended church and was a first man of influence. Year after year a little man of influence came to his home to have him show them around to the voters. So popular did he become that he ran and was elected to one of the county offices.

This was the undoing of the Thunder Gust family.

As soon as the Gusts moved to the new place, Silver Bell began to live in the society and borrowing money to live faster. Mr. Gust took to drinking, betting on races and playing the lottery.

One day Silver Bell Gust got to attending evening parties boarding at hotel and directing joy rides. Mrs. Gust set to work drinking fire water herself. It was a usual thing to see her brought home in a "limp" cab in the morning and a few moments later to see Thunder Gust brought home.

Silver Bell was informed that her husband was profligate for another year besides his own and one night she took a corn cutter and went over to the shanty house. Mrs. Gust whacked a plank of wood out of the door frame to let the people know that she was after her husband.

Thunder Gust took his wife's gold watch and jewelry and sold them. With the money he rented a hotel with a sliding barroom. One evening when he was in the jagged silver bell entered the room, bit off his right ear and took all the high priced liquor to her home. Before she left she threw a tin on the floor and killed him in the ribs.

You're a brute, you're a savage brute. You were a savage when I married you and you're a savage today and a hog besides. I want you to leave the reservation this morning and take your white flame with you. Your liquor license will be revoked in a week. Women are now running things in the West.

Those were the last words Silver Bell spoke to Thunder Gust as she gave him a parting kick in the ribs.

WASHINGTON
CORRESPONDENCE.

United Press Special
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 11.—From brochures to skywriters, the use of aluminum is rapidly extending, according to a report on the advance of the aluminum industries, made by the United States Geological Survey. The utilization of aluminum seems almost endless, according to report. It is entirely certain that it can be used for structural material, as it has been demonstrated that it is highly resistant to chemical action. It is in ready supply, and it is rolled and drawn into wire, also.

Already the nations are beginning to be worried about the supply of iron ore and this fact makes the advance of aluminum take on a tremendous importance. Back of the Trusts-German trouble over Morocco, for example, is said to lie, among other things, the fact that Morocco has vast supplies of iron ore which Germany needs.

Not over a generation ago, aluminum was little more than a curiosity, principally because of its great weight. It was worth $15 a pound or more, and its total production in the United States was less than 100 pounds a year, notwithstanding the fact that aluminum is the most abundant of all the metals in the earth's crust, of which aluminum oxide forms about 10 per cent.

The consumption of aluminum in the United States for 1910 was 21,000 pounds, with a total value of nearly $2,000,000. The price, it is thus seen has dropped from about $1 an ounce to about 25 cents a pound and one and one-half cent an ounce. The supply, according to the Geological Survey experts, is practically unlimited, only awaiting a cheap process of extraction. It is at present produced only from bauxite, a comparatively scarce mineral.

Moonslayers were never so active in the mountains of Virginia as now, according to the statements of officers of the Internal Revenue Service of the Treasury Department.

Agents of the collectors in Virginia are quoted as saying that there are more illicit stills in the mountains of that state than ever before. The same opinion is expressed by the officials in Washington. They do not, however, confine themselves to the statement that this business is thriving only in the mountains. They say that as a matter of fact it is being actively carried on in all parts of the country and that only the most unremitting vigilance on the part of the government agents keeps it from assuming huge proportions.

The temptation to distill liquor that will not be burdened with the internal revenue tax is great and the time will never come when the revenue officers say, when it will be possible to convince a considerable share of the population that there is anything wrong in evading the revenue laws. The situation is comparable, they say, to that in the customs service, where officers at New York and Boston find people often so eminently respectable perpetrating wholesale frauds upon the government by failing to declare dutiable goods brought in Europe.

United States military attaches at foreign embassies hereafter will have to pay their own carriage hire. A decision to this effect was handed down by the Comptroller of the Treasury at Gracewell. Several attaches have recently sent in bills for carriage used at official functions which they had been invited. They contended that under the revenue laws the appropriation bill providing "for transportation of army officers" they were entitled to reimbursement. Comptroller Gracewell ruled that the act does not apply to officers abroad and that, therefore, these officers must pay their own carriage bills.

Incidentally with the plan of Secretary of the Navy Meyer to abandon the unused navy yards of the nation, it has developed here that if the plan goes through, the only woman in the world in command of a navy yard will lose her job.

Commandant Metcalf, in charge of what is known as Uncle Sam's books at the Snickett's Harbor Navy Yard, is a woman. By that fact alone, she makes the United States navy unique among all the navies of the world, as none other has a woman in command of any naval establishment.

For official purposes it matters not that the Station at Snickett's Harbor, which is on the lake shore of New York, at the source of the St. James river, consists only of a flagpole, and that the only ships are some hulks which have been rolling in the shallow water since the war of 1812. Congress has never given permission for the abandonment of the navy yard, and so it goes on.

In 1906 Albert H. Metcalf was holding the position as commandant, though he was not now officer of the navy. In March of that year he died, and President Roosevelt appointed his widow to his post. The only duty of this of raising the flag daily and seeing that no one walks off with the worthless naval junk.

A thoroughly organized movement to bring about a change in pay for 10,000 or 20,000 government employees in Washington is in full swing. Former Senator Chas. Dick, of Ohio, is one of the leaders in the spirit of the movement. His political experience has enabled him to be of great aid in the making of a campaign along practical terms.

The work has come out so vigorously and tactfully that the clerks seem to have a fair chance of winning. In the meantime the chief argument, of course, has been the high cost of living.

A discrepancy made a few days ago that the salaries of clerks were higher before the civil war than they are at present is being presented as a powerful argument. It appears that in 1852 Congress ordered a law increasing the compensation of government clerks and classifying them.

The average salary of a clerk before the passage of the bill was $1,172 and after its passage the average was $1,200. At the present time the average is $1,072. Friends of the clerks do not fail to point out that in the early years the purchasing power of articles of food per dollar was probably two or three times greater than in these days of high cost.

Journalistic Jottings.
Johnston has a new afternoon paper. The Leader is a healthy specimen of journalism. The first issue consists of 10 pages well filled with advertising and neatly printed. The Leader seems to have found room for itself. The new paper is edited by L. J. Connelville, for many years assistant editor of the Johnston Tribune, edited and published by Anderson H. Walters. John J. Gahlin, until quite recently of the Washington Record, is associate editor.

Hard Luck Sale

Friday, 13th.

In other words, a Cleanup Sale regardless of cost. Our loss will prove good luck to all who take advantage of it.

This is a sale that is going to create interest. A lot of good things from every department will be gotten out and marked so low that one day's selling will see them off. It's hard luck when Fall and Winter's stock are opened up to find them slightly soiled or that certain color effects and patterns we thought extremely good did not take well with our trade. Since we've decided to clean them up we've made the price so low as to more than make up for these slight imperfections.

To make the sale all the more interesting a big lot of new Remnants will be offered at our Remnant Counter at their usual low prices.

HALLOWE'EN MEET TOMORROW EVENING.

Scottdale Has Changed Date of Considering the Autumn Festival.

MEET IN BOROUGH BUILDING

Everyone Interested in a Safe, Safe and Harmless Celebration is Needed at the Meeting—Other Notes of News in Mill Town.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Oct. 11.—On account of an adjourned meeting of Council the Halloween meeting set for Friday evening will be held instead on Thursday evening at the Borough building. The committee in charge desires a full turnout of all those interested, and practically everyone in town is interested in the safe and harmless celebration which was inaugurated here several years ago, and has been so successfully carried out. The school authorities among others are expected to take part again this year, as the celebration of Halloween has saved much vandalism, since the young folks of town were placed on their honor to celebrate only one night. Last year they cut out Chalk Night, Corn Night and no damage of any kind was done in town. Instead the boys and girls took part in the big parade and many unique and beautiful costumes were to be seen.

This year the endeavor is being made to have the preparation start earlier so that the celebration will far surpass any ever held here. As it happens the real Halloween night comes on a Tuesday, and this year falls upon the night of the opening of the Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course with Vital's Venetian Band. It has been suggested that the celebration be held on Monday night and this is one of the things for consideration at the meeting. Already the offers of money for the celebration show what many people want, and the celebration will be better financed than ever before, although it is the least expensive of any similar municipal event.

Had a Practice.
The Scottdale Mandolin and Guitar Club, one of the youngest and best of the local musical organizations, held a practice meeting at Dorsey's barber shop last evening.

Moved a Safe.
The moving of the big safe from the jewelry store formerly occupied by C. L. Kuhn & Sons in the Central Hotel building, to the new jewelry store of Kropff, in the room lately occupied by the Scottdale Plumbing & Roofing Company interested many people along Pittsburgh street Monday forenoon. Two trucks were made by having plank on the paved street, the safe was set on these plank and W. L. Ritchey's 1 1/2 team of greys was attached. The team drew the safe along slowly, two plank being laid ahead of the safe. Thus the big iron safe box was moved up Pittsburgh street and placed in its new home.

Thomas J. Dinkin, the real estate man, who was burned out of the rooms in the Bennett building, over the Adams Express Company, has removed his office to the second floor of the Central Hotel building.

Now in Box Car.
The Adams Express Company, another of the sufferers by last week's fire, is now doing business in a box car that has been put in on the Broadway siding of the Pennsylvania railroad. Steps have been built up and a stove put in the car.

A Strange Car.
On the afternoon train going north on Monday there was a strange express car, a long low tusked craft, bearing the name of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad. It was a good distance from home.

A Fine Sermon.
One of the most beautiful sermons ever heard in Scottdale was that preached by a layman, Daniel W. Shupe, of the United Brethren church, who was in the pulpit of the First Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday morning. Mr. Shupe is counted one of the finest Bible teachers in town, and his address was a powerful one. In the evening the Epworth League held a splendid service.

Surprise at Home.
A very pleasant surprise party was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horne of Spring street, Tuesday evening. In spite of the bad weather about 10 couples turned out and a very pleasant evening was spent in playing various games. The feature of the evening was the music furnished by the Silver Quartette and other melodious voices. About 10:30 a sumptuous lunch was served after which all departed for their homes feeling that they had spent a very jovial time together.

SUPERIOR COURT DECISIONS.

Sustain Judgments Given W. A. Stone by Local Court.

By a Superior Court decision handed down yesterday by President Judge Rice, judgment was affirmed in the two cases where certain land in Rodstown township had been left to the English heirs. This was not to be partitioned or sold until the youngest child should become 21.

W. A. Stone, of Hopwood, secured an option from three of these heirs and accepted and paid to each interest $1,000. Later it was found he could not get a marketable deed for the purchase. Suits to recover the amounts followed. Service could not be had in one suit.

Mr. Stone got judgment in both cases which were appealed. The Superior Court has sustained the lower court in each instance.

In the case of Schlavont vs. Dubuque Fire and Marine Insurance Company from this county the judgment was reversed and the record remitted. This case came from Republic and involved a point of law. The local court held for the defendant company. The plaintiff carried insurance on a building constructed on rented ground. There also was insurance on the goods in the building. It was a question whether the defendant company under the policy had the right to divide the claim.

TRY THIS

OVERNIGHT CURE FOR COLD IN HEAD OR CHEST.

Cataract Germs Must Be Conquered or Health Will Be Destroyed.

If you have catarrh you must vanquish an army of persistent, instructive microbes before you can get rid of it.

You must as well choose your weapon. Declare war and annihilate this army of catarrh germs right now.

Stomach dosing won't kill them; neither will sprays or douches.

HYOMIN, a pleasant, antiseptic, germ destroying air breathed over the entire membrane will put catarrh germs out of business in short order. HYOMIN (pronounced It High ome) is guaranteed by A. A. Clarke to end catarrh asthma, bronchitis, coughs, colds, and croup, or money back. If you own a little HYOMIN hand rubber pocket inhaler you can get an appropriate bottle of HYOMIN for only 50 cents. If you haven't an inhaler buy a complete outfit that only costs $1.00.

THE VALUATION

Of Fayette County in 1910 Shows a Nice Increase.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 10.—The annual report of Auditor General A. J. Shaw, made public Monday, shows that the valuation of personal property in Pennsylvania has increased $67,163,511.46 during the past year, or an average of $1,000,000 per county. Sixty of the 67 counties report an aggregate increase of $67,278,517.91, the seven remaining counties showing a total decrease of $8,114,986.17.

The State collects a 1 mill tax on personal property, the total collected for the year being $1,793,251.84, four-fifths of which, or $1,559,125.96 will be returned to the counties in which it is collected.

Fayette was one of the counties showing a splendid increase, its valuation now being $8,578,344. Greene county is credited with $1,900,000; Somerset, $1,290,295; Washington, $17,909,320, and Westmoreland, $19,077,736.

A. D. BOYD'S WILL

Filed for Probate in Office of Register and Recorder Tuesday.

The last will and testament of the late Albert D. Boyd of Uniontown was filed for probate in the office of the register and recorder late yesterday afternoon. The will was made on October 3, just two days previous to his death. The complete text of the will is as follows:

In the name of God. Amen. Know all men by these presents that I, Albert D. Boyd, attorney at law, of Uniontown, Fayette county, Pennsylvania, do make and publish the following last will and testament, having made no other will.

Whatever estate I may have at the time of my death, I dispose of as follows: I direct my executor, hereinafter designated, to pay all my just debts and funeral expenses, including a burial lot and monument, if I should not attend to the burial lot and monument in my lifetime. The remainder of my estate, real, personal or mixed, of whatever kind or wheresoever situated I give, devise and bequeath to my beloved wife, Annie D. Boyd, and in default of her I am not unmindful of my children, Mary E. Bowman, wife of Charles E. Bowman; Edward W. Smith; L. Albert D. Jr., and Wallace H. Boyd, and therefore I recommend to my executor hereinafter named that so far as relates to my estate she treat all of them with the same kindness, fairness and impartiality that has heretofore characterized her treatment of them in disposing of her own estate, but not with the same liberality as heretofore.

Tona Vita is a Body Builder

In a recent interview one of the physicians who are introducing the remarkable new tonic "Tona Vita" to the American public, had this to say.

"The manner of living in the larger cities of the United States is such that perfect health is almost impossible, the human machine will not run long and strong day after day with its vitality continually being sapped by the constant nervous strain, irregular hours, hastily eaten food, the wear and tear and rush of city life, are largely responsible for the immense amount of dull, listless, half-sick people of the present generation. Debility or a 'run down' condition as it is called, is everywhere. Half the people I see in street cars, restaurants, theatres, or on the street, are unmistakably in a debilitated condition, with their nerves in such a state that they either wish to lie down and rest or rush after some excitement."

"Any one who has met a constant stream of nervous debilitated people as I have since I began my present work, can tell a man or woman in this condition at a glance. I wish to emphasize the fact that the number of debilitated people in the larger American cities is appalling."

"Tona Vita," the medicine I am helping to introduce, is to combat this condition. I believe it to be the best preparation ever before sold to the public, in that it is immediately effective in cases of debility and other troubles that go hand in hand with this disease."

You can not hope to enjoy life or meet with much success if you are tired all the time, have little ambition and feel continually depressed in mind and body. Every half-sick, worn-out man or woman owes it to themselves and their family, to try "Tona Vita." If the tonic does not make life more worth living, and brings back the healthy, energetic spirit, that is now lacking, the price is refunded. A. A. Clarke has the agency for "Tona Vita" in Connelville; also for Lee's Rheubarb Laxative, the purest and best family laxative on the market. Lee's Rheubarb Laxative will not injure the most delicate constitution. It is ideal for children.

Rejoicing of Law Jews' Happy Holiday

The happiest day of the Jewish year will begin next Saturday at sundown when the children practically will have charge of the synagogue. The ceremony observed is the Rejoicing of the Law. In commemoration thereof the little ones will be given the scrolls to carry in procession.

This ceremony is practically a part of the Feast of Tabernacles which began at sundown Friday and lasts one week. The eighth, or added day of this feast, known as the Day of Prayer, is identical in its religious character with the Thanksgiving Day of the United States. The Rejoicing of the Law follows this celebration.

In connection with the Feast of Tabernacles, services were held in all synagogues Saturday. The orthodox congregations conducted additional services on Sunday.

The Jewish Thanksgiving Day is a continuation of the rites observed when the Jews in Palestine visited Jerusalem, gave thanks for the harvest they had just enjoyed and prayed for rains for those to come.

TOT DROWNS IN CAN.

Charcoal Child Falls Into Gallon of Water.

CHARLESTON, Pa., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—While the mother was out of the room yesterday Brenda Mae Gaskins, the 12-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Gaskins, edged her way to a land can containing a gallon of water. The child drew herself up to the side of the can, and seeing the water, tried to dip in her hand. She lost her balance and fell in head foremost. When the mother returned she found the little one dead.

Frick Company Cleaning Up Stock

Special to The Courier.

OWENSDALE, Oct. 11.—The H. C. Frick Coke Company is cleaning up the stock coke on its yards along the Morgan valley, at the Tip Top, Summit, Eagle, Foundry, Morgan, Novelty, and Henry Clay plants. A part of this stock coke has been out in the weather for over a year, especially at the Summit, Eagle, Foundry, Novelty and Henry Clay yards. There are thousands of tons of this coke on the yards of the above named plants, several of which will likely never operate again. The Summit, Eagle and Foundry works now belong to the past, while the life of Tip Top is a question of but a few months.

The Novelty and Henry Clay plants have not been in operation for over a year and their resumption again is somewhat doubtful. The White plant has not been in operation for a long period. This mine has considerable coal yet in stumps, along main gangways and a small tract of solid coal. The Novelty and Henry Clay plants are also nearing its termination as a coal producer and the life of this plant is also a question of only a few months, as almost all the solid coal has been mined and the work of cleaning up is going along rapidly, but little coal was lost here since its beginning owing to the excellent plans of mining it.

This plant has undoubtedly the best record of any small plant in the coke region, being almost continually in operation since it was first fired, 32 years ago. During that time it has won out man or woman, even it to themselves and their family, to try "Tona Vita." If the tonic does not make life more worth living, and brings back the healthy, energetic spirit, that is now lacking, the price is refunded. A. A. Clarke has the agency for "Tona Vita" in Connelville; also for Lee's Rheubarb Laxative, the purest and best family laxative on the market. Lee's Rheubarb Laxative will not injure the most delicate constitution. It is ideal for children.

The Summit and Morgan stores of the Union Supply Company have been torn down as have scores of tenement houses at the various plants.

The officials of the H. C. Frick Coke Company can feel justly proud of the grand record established by these plants and the impression they have left upon the coke industry.

Women Lose in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 11.—With returns from little more than one-tenth of the State at hand, the indications are that California, yesterday had refused to grant equal suffrage to women, but had by an emphatic vote made the initiative and referendum and the recall, the latter including the judiciary, part of its organic law.

OWES HER HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottdale, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house."

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has always helped her."

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to these wonderful medicines."

PART I.
CHAPTER I.

It was a quiet night in the Tirol. At the bar, which ranged along one side of the large, dimly-lit room, leaned half a dozen men, two of whom were discussing the relative merits of spruce tea and lime juice as remedies for scurvy. They argued with an air of depression and with intervals of morose silence. The other men merely heeded them. In a row, against the opposite wall, were the gambling tables. The crap table was deserted. One lone man was playing at the faro table. The roulette was not even spinning, and the gamekeeper stood by the roulette, red-hot stove, talking with a young, dark-eyed woman, comely of face and figure, who was known from Juneau to Fort Yukon as the Virgin. Three men sat at the stud poker, but they played with small chips and without enthusiasm, on the floor of the dancing room, which opened out of the bar, three couples were waiting directly to the strains of a violin and piano.

Circle City was not deserted, nor was money tight. The miners were in from Moosehead creek and the other diggings to the west, the summer washbox had been good, and the men's pouches were heavy with dust and nuggets. The Klondike had not yet been discovered, nor had the miners of the Yukon learned the possibilities of deep digging and wood-boring. No work was done in the winter, and they made a practice of hibernating in the large camps like Circle City during the long Arctic night. Time was heavy on their hands, their pouches were well filled and the only social diversion to be found was in the saloons. Yet the Tirol was practically deserted, and the Virgin, standing by the stove, yawned with uncovered mouth and said to Charley Bates:

"If something don't happen soon, I'm going to bed. What's the matter with the camp, anyway? Everybody dead?"

Bates did not even trouble to reply, but went on moodily rolling a cigarette. Dan MacDonald, pianist, saloonman and gambler, and the upper Yukon, crossed and proprietor of the Tirol and all its games, wandered forlornly across the great vacant space of floor and joined the two at the stove.

"Anybody dead?" the Virgin asked him.

"Looks like it," was the answer.

"Then it must be the whole camp," she said with an air of finality and with another yawn.

MacDonald yawned and nodded, and opened his mouth to speak, when the front door swung open and a man appeared in the light. He would have appeared a large man had not a huge French-Canadian stepped up to him from the bar and gripped his hand.

"Hello, Daylight!" was his greeting.

"My God, you good for sore eyes!"

"Hello, Louis, when did you all blow in?" returned the newcomer. "Come up and have a drink and tell us all about Bone creek. Why, doggone you-all, shake again. Where's that partner of yours? I'm looking for him."

Another huge man detached himself from the bar to shake hands. Olat Henderson and French Louis, partners together on Bone creek, were the two largest men in the country, and though they were but half a head taller than the newcomer, between them he was dwarfed completely.

"Hello, Olat," said the one called Daylight. "Tomorrow's my birthday. And you, too, Louis. Come up and drink, and I'll tell you all about it."

The arrival of the newcomer seemed to send a flood of warmth through the place. "It's Burning Daylight," the Virgin cried, the first to recognize him as he came into the light. Charley Bates' light features relaxed at the sight, and MacDonald went over and joined the three at the bar. With the advent of Burning Daylight the whole place suddenly became brighter and cheerier. The barkeepers were active. Voices were raised. Somebody laughed. And when the fiddler, peering into the front room, remarked to the pianist: "It's Burning Daylight," the waltz time perceptibly quickened, and the dancers, catching the contagion, began to whirl about as if they really enjoyed it. It was known to them of old-time that nothing lashed when Burning Daylight was around.

He turned from the bar and saw the woman by the stove and the eager look of welcome she extended him.

"Hello, Virgin, old girl," he called. "Hello, Charley. What's the matter with you-all? Why wear faces like that when coffee only cost three ounces? Come up, you-all, and drink. Come up, you unbearably dead, and name your poison. Come up, everybody. This is my night, and I'm going to ride it. Tomorrow I'm thirty, and then I'll be an old man. It's the last fling of youth. Are you all with me? Surge along, then. Surge along."

The waltz in the back room being finished, the three couples, followed by the fiddler and the pianist, and heading for the bar, caught Daylight's eye.

"Surge Along, You-All!" He Cried. "Surge Along and Name It."

"Surge along, you-all!" he cried. "Surge along and name it. This is my night, and it ain't a night that comes frequent. Surge up, you Swashes and Salmon-eaters. It's my night, I tell you-all!"

"A blamed many night," Charley Bates interposed.

"You're right, my son," Burning Daylight went on, gayly. "A many night, but it's my night, you see. I'm the many old bo-wolf. Listen to me how!"

And how he did, like a lone gray timber wolf, till the Virgin thrust her pretty fingers in her ears and shrieked. A minute later she was whirling away in his arms to the dancing floor, where, along with three other women and their partners, a rollicking Virginia reel was soon in progress.

Few men know Elam Harishah by any other name than Burning Daylight, the name which had been given him in the early days in the land because of his habit of routing his comrades out of their blankets with the complaint that daylight was burning. Of the pioneers in that far Arctic wilderness, where all men were pioneers, he was reckoned among the oldest. Men like Al Mayo and Jack McQuestion antedated him; but they had entered the land by crossing the Rockies from the Hudson Bay country to the east. He, however, had been the pioneer over the Chilcot and Chilcot passes. In the spring of 1883, twelve years before, a strippling of eighteen, he had crossed over the Chilcot with five comrades. In the fall he had crossed back with one,

Four had perished by mischance in the bleak, uncharted vastness. And for twelve years Elam Harishah had continued to grope for gold among the shadows of the Circle. Heroes are seldom given to hero-worship, but among those of that land, young as he was, he was accounted an older hero. In point of time he was before them. In point of deed he was beyond them. He was a striking figure of a man, of all the men in the Tirol. Soft-tanned moccasins of moose hide, bound in Indian designs, covered his feet. His trousers were ordinary overalls, his coat was made from a blanket. Long-antiquated leather mittens, lined with wool, hung by his side. They were connected, in the Yukon fashion by a leather thong passed around the neck and across the shoulders. On his head was a fur cap, the ear-flaps raised and the tongs-dangle hanging. His face, lean and slightly long, with the suggestion of hollows under the cheek bones, seemed almost Indian. The burnt skin and keen dark eyes contributed to this effect, though the bones of the skin and the eyes themselves were essentially those of a white man. He looked older than thirty, and yet, smooth-shaven and without wrinkles, he was almost boyish. The impression of age was based on no tangible evidence. It came from the abstract facts of the man, from what he had endured and survived, which was far beyond that of ordinary men. He and Ivo, a mixed and tenacious, and something of all this considered in his eyes, vibrated in his voice and seemed forever a whisper on his lips.

It was two in the morning when the dancers, bent on getting something to eat, adjourned the dancing for half an hour. And it was at this moment that Jack Kearns suggested poker. Jack Kearns was a big, blue-eyed man, who, along with Bates, had made the disastrous attempt to found a post on the head-branch of the Koyukuk, far inside the Arctic circle. After that Kearns had fallen back on his heels at Forty Mile and Sixty Mile and changed the direction of his ventures by sending out to the states for a small saw-mill and a river steamer. Jack Kearns suggested poker. French Louis, Dan MacDonald and Hal Campbell (who had made a strike on Moosehead), all three of whom were not dancing because there were no girls enough to go around, inclined to the suggestion. They were looking for a fifth man when Burning Daylight emerged from the rear room, the Virgin on his arm, the train of dancers in his wake. In response to the half of the poker-players, he came over to their table in the corner.

"Want to sit in," said Campbell. "How's you luck?"

"I sure got it tonight," Burning Daylight answered with enthusiasm, and at the same time felt the Virgin press his arm warningly. She wanted him for the dancing. "I sure got a luck with me, but I'd sooner dance. I ain't hankerin' to take the money away from you-all."

Nobody urged. They took his refusal as final, and the Virgin was pressing his arm to turn him away in pursuit of the supper-chooks, when he experienced a change of heart. It was not that he did not want to dance, nor that he wanted to hurt her; but that insistent pressure on his arm put his free man-nature in revolt. The thought in his mind was that he did not want any woman running him. Himself a favorite with women, nevertheless they did not bulk with him. They were toys, playthings, part of the relaxation from the bigger game of life. He met women along with the whiskey and gambling, and from observation he had found that it was far easier to break away from the drink and the cards than from a woman once the man was properly antedated. He resisted the pull on his arm by the mere negative mass of him, and said:

"I sort of feel a hankerin' to give you-all a better."

Tact and sympathy strove with him and he smiled with his eyes into the Virgin's eyes as he said:

"You-all go and get some grub. I ain't hungry. And we'll dance some more by and by. The night's young yet. Go it, old girl."

He released his arm and thrust her playfully on the shoulder, at the same time turning to the poker players.

"Take off the limit and I'll go you-all."

"Limit's the roof," said Jack Kearns. "Once started, it was a quiet game, with little or no conversation, though all about the players the place was a-ronc. Elam Harishah had ignited the spark. More and more players dropped in to the Tirol and remained. When Burning Daylight went on the floor, no man cared to miss it. The dancing floor was full. The luck at the table varied monotonously, no big hands being out. As a result, high play went on with small hands, though no play lasted long. But at three in the morning the big combination of hands arrived. It was the moment of moments that men wait weeks for in a poker game. The news of it tingled over the Tirol. The onlookers became quiet. The men farther away ceased talking and moved over to the table. The players deserted the other games, and the dancing-floor was forsaken, so that all stood at last, five or six and more in a compact and silent group, around the poker table. The high betting went on, with the draw not in sight. Kearns had dealt, and French Louis had opened the pot with one marker—in his case one hundred dollars. Campbell had merely "seen" it, but Elam Harishah, coming next, had tossed in five hundred dollars, with the remark to MacDonald: "That he was letting him be easy. MacDonald, glancing again at his hand, put in a thousand in markers. Kearns, debating a long time over his hand, finally "saw." It then came French Louis also hundred to remain in the game, which he contributed after a similar debate. It cost Campbell likewise also hundred to remain and draw cards, but to the surprise of all he saw the nine hundred and raised another thousand.

"You-all are on the grade at last," Harishah remarked, as he saw the fifteen hundred and raised a thousand in turn. "Helen Breakfast's sure on top this divide, and you-all had best look out for bustin' harness."

"No for that same lady," accompanied MacDonald's markers for two thousand and for an additional thousand-dollar raise.

"I ain't got no more markers," Kearns remarked plaintively. "We'd best begin it, O. U's."

"Glad you're going to stay," was MacDonald's cordial response.

"I ain't stayed yet. I've got a thousand in already. How's it stand now?"

"I'll cost you three thousand for a look in, but nobody will stop you from raising."

"Raise—h—l. You must think I got a pat like yourself," Kearns looked at his hand. "But I'll tell you what I'll do, Mac. I've got a hunch, and I'll just see that three thousand."

He wrote the sum on a slip of paper, signed his name, and consigned it to the center of the table.

French Louis became the focus of all eyes. He fingered his cards nervously for a pace. Then, with a "By God! Ah got not one little beet hunch," he regrettably tossed his hand into the discard.

The next moment the hundred and odd pairs of eyes shifted to Campbell.

"I won't hump you, Jack," he said, contenting himself with calling the requisite two thousand.

The eyes shifted to Harishah, who scribbled on a piece of paper and showed it forward.

"I'll just let you-all know this ain't no Sunday school society of philanthropy," he said. "I see you, Jack, and I raise you a thousand. Here's where you-all get action on your pat, Mac."

"Action's what I fatten on, and I lift another thousand," was MacDonald's rejoinder. "Still got that hunch, Jack?"

"I still got that hunch," Kearns fingered his cards a long time. "And I'll play it, but you've got to know how I stand. There's my steamer, the Bella—worth twenty thousand if she's worth an ounce. There's Sixty-Mile with five thousand in stock on the shelves. And you know I got a saw-mill coming in. It's at Linderman now, and the saw is building. Am I good?"

"Dig in; you're sure good," was Daylight's answer. "And while we're about it, I may mention casual that I got twenty thousand in Mac's safe, there, and there's twenty thousand more in the ground on Moosehide. You know the ground, Campbell. Is that that-all in the dirt?"

"There sure is, Daylight."

"How much does it cost now?" Kearns asked.

"Two thousand to see."

"Well, sure hump you if you-all come in," Daylight warned him. "It's an almighty good hunch," Kearns said, adding his slip to the growing heap. "I can feel her crawl in' up and down my back."

"We'll dance some more by and by, The Night's Young Yet."

"I ain't got a hunch, but I got a tolerable good hand," Campbell announced, as he slid in his slip; "but it's not a raising hand."

"That's it," Daylight paused and wrote. "I see that thousand and raise her the same old thousand."

The Virgin, standing behind him, then did what a man's best friend was not privileged to do. Reaching over Daylight's shoulder, she picked up his hand and read it, at the same time shielding the faces of the cards close to his chest. What she saw were three queens and a pair of eights, but nobody guessed what she saw. Every player's eyes were on her face as she scanned the cards, but no sign did she give. She laid the hand face down again on the table and slowly the lingering eyes withdrew from her, having learned nothing.

MacDonald smiled benevolently. "I see you, Daylight, and I hump this time for two thousand. How's that hunch, Jack?"

"Still scrawling, Mac. You got me now, but that hunch is a rip-snorter persuadin' sort of a critter, and it's my plain duty to ride it. I call for three thousand. And I got another hunch; Daylight's going to call, too."

"Ho sure is," Daylight agreed, after Campbell had thrown up his hand. "He knows when he's up against it, and he plays accordant. I see that two thousand, and then I'll see the draw."

In a dead silence, save for the low voices of the three players, the draw was made. Thirty-four thousand dollars were already in the pot, and the play possibly not half over. To the Virgin's amazement, Daylight held up his three queens, discarding his eights and calling for two cards. And this time not even she dared look at what he had drawn. She knew her limit of control. Nor did he look. The two new cards lay face down on the table where they had been dealt to him.

"Got enough," was the reply.

"You can draw if you want to, you know," Kearns warned him.

"None; this'll do me."

Kearns himself drew two cards, but did not look at them. Still Harishah let his cards lie.

"I never bet in the teeth of a pat hand," he said slowly, looking at the saloon keeper. "You-all start her rolling, Mac."

MacDonald counted his cards carefully, to make doubly sure it was not a foul hand, wrote a sum on a paper slip, and slid it into the pot, with the simple utterance:

"Five thousand."

Kearns, with every eye upon him, looked at his two-card draw, counted the other three to dispel any doubt of holding more than five cards, and wrote on a betting slip.

"I see you, Mac," he said, "and I raise her a little thousand just so as to keep Daylight out."

The concentrated gaze shifted to Daylight. He likewise examined his draw and counted his five cards.

"I see that six thousand, and I raise her five thousand . . . just to try and keep you out, Jack."

"And I raise you five thousand just to land a hand at keeping Jack out," MacDonald said in turn.

His voice was slightly husky and strained, and a nervous twitch in the corner of his mouth followed speech. Kearns was pale, and those who looked on noted that his hand trembled as he wrote his slip. But his voice was unchanged.

"I lift her along for five thousand," he said.

Daylight was now in the center. The kerosene lamps above hung high lights from the rash of sweat on his forehead. The corner of his cheeks was darkened by the accession of blood. His black eyes glittered and his nostrils were distended and eager. They were large nostrils, tokening his descent from savage ancestors who had survived by virtue of deep lungs and generous air-passages. Yet, unlike MacDonald, his voice was firm and customary, and, unlike Kearns, his hand did not tremble when he wrote.

"I call, for ten thousand," he said. "Not that I'm afraid of you-all, Mac. It's that hunch of Jack's."

"I hump his hunch for five thousand just the same," said MacDonald. "I had the best hand before the draw, and I still guess I got it."

"Mebbe this is a case where a hunch after the draw is sweeter on the hunch before," Kearns remarked; "wherefore duty says, 'Lift her, Jack, lift her,' and so I lift her another five thousand."

Daylight leaned back in his chair and gazed up at the kerosene lamps while he computed aloud:

"I was in nine thousand before the draw, and I saw and raised eleven thousand—that makes twenty. I'm only good for ten more." He leaned forward and looked at Kearns. "So I call or five thousand."

"You can raise if you want," Kearns answered. "Your dogs are good for five thousand in this game."

"Nary dawg. You-all can win my dust and dirt, but nary one of my dawgs. I just call."

The saloon keeper finally spoke: "If anybody else wins, they'll have to take a mortgage on the Tirol." The two other players nodded.

"So I call, too."

MacDonald added his slip for five thousand. Not one of them claimed the pot, and not one of them called the slip of his hand. Simultaneously and in silence they faced their cards on the table, while a general tipping and earning of necks took place among the onlookers. Daylight showed four queens and an ace; Mac Donald four jacks and an ace, and Kearns four kings and a trey. Kearns reached forward with an encircling movement of his arm and drew the pot in to him, his arm shaking as he did so. Daylight picked the ace from his hand and tossed it over alongside MacDonald's ace, saying:

"That's what cheered me along, Mac. I knowed it was only kings that could beat me, and he had them."

"What did you-all have?" he asked, all interest, turning to Campbell.

"Straight flush of four, open at both ends—a good drawing hand."

"You bet! You could a' made a straight, a straight flush or a flush out of it."

"That's what I thought," Campbell said, sadly. "It cost me six thousand before I quit."

"I wish you-all'd drawn," Daylight laughed. "Then I wouldn't a' caught that fourth queen. Now I've got to take Billy Rawlins' mail contract and mush for Dyce. What's the size of the killing, Jack?"

Kearns attempted to count the pot, but was too excited. Daylight drew it across to him, with firm fingers separating and stacking the markers and I. O. U's and with clear brain adding the sum.

"One hundred and twenty-seven thousand," he announced. "You-all can sell out now, Jack, and head for home."

The winner smiled and nodded, but seemed incapable of speech.

"Name your snake-bite, you-all—the winner pays!" Daylight called out loudly to all about him, at the same time rising from his chair and catching the Virgin by the arm. "Come on for a reel, you-all dancers. The night's young yet, and it's Helen Breakfast and the mail contract for me in the morning. Here, you-all Rawlins, you—horribly do take over that same contract, and I start for salt water at nine a. m.—savvy? Come on, you-all! Where's that fiddler?"

MORE THAN SKIN DEEP.

More Than a Skin Salve Is Needed to Cure Piles Permanently.

Don't be disappointed if you fail to get a lasting cure of piles with salves. The cause of piles is more than skin deep. It is sluggish, flabby veins—pockets filled with thick, bad blood.

HEM-ROID, a tablet tonic remedy, is taken inwardly, acts on the circulation and cures all kinds of piles thoroughly.

THE SOISSON.

"Billy, the Kid," Tonight.

"Billy, the Kid," the successful western drama in which the popular young actor Nolan Gage appears at the Soisson tonight proves to be extremely well fitted to his uses. The play, while sensational, is consistent and tells a story that is full of interest, having for its big climaxes, situations which are exceptionally dramatic. The comedy element is furnished by a good-natured Irishman, a fine type of the old school Southern colonel and his colored orderly. The love interest that is developed in the telling of the story, is exceedingly strong and the types which have been introduced by the authors, are taken from life and well and clearly drawn. From a production standpoint, the play is elaborate, each of the four acts having been given handsome and artistic settings.

Manhattan Gaiety Girls. The Manhattan Gaiety Girls, that sterling organization headed by the popular versatile comedian, William Jennings, is billed to appear at the Soisson theatre Monday, Oct. 16, and to merely say that a fine performance is assured, would be putting it lightly. A splendid feature of the show is an innovation by Mabel Webb, "The English Models," depicting with fidelity and artistic appeal, prose, poetry and tableaux, par excellence. The marvellous work of the peerless Calliente is a sensational number, sure to please, while all hats are off to the Beauty Chorus—the brothers and the ponies.

A GAS EXPLOSION MAKES EXCITEMENT.

Jack Heastings, a Scottdale Plumber, Burned About Face and Arms.

ANOTHER BLOW TO STREET

Two Men Were Going Into Cellar of Burned Building, When Gas Let Go Injuring Man and Setting Fire to Place.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Oct. 11.—M. D. (Jack) Heastings, a plumber, was badly burned about the arms and face in an explosion of gas in the cellar of the Livingston & Miller building, on Broadway, yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock. Heastings' father-in-law, Amos Thompson, who was following him down stairs, was blown out of the doorway, in the sheet of flame that went with the explosion. Thompson landed at the curb. Dennis Delavan, who was holding open the door in the sidewalk while the two men went into the cellar, was knocked down.

Several people in M. M. Trout's meat shop next door were frightened by the explosion in the cellar under them, and when the floor of the meat shop was heaved up by the force. Heastings and Thompson were going down into the cellar which extends under the Trout meat shop, McBeth & Taylor's grocery and Dennis Delavan's, where part of the fire was a week ago. It is said that Heastings had been in the cellar with a light about 10 minutes before. He was again going down the stairs leading from the sidewalk and was about on the last step, with his father-in-law close behind him. The flames from the explosion burned Heastings' arms, where he had his sleeves turned up. He fell toward the side of the door sheltering his face with his arms, and was able to get out, with his shirt blazing. The fire was quickly extinguished and Dr. W. H. Peter gave him medical treatment.

The explosion is blamed on natural gas that is claimed to have followed the pipes in from the street. There has been much complaint about the odor of gas about the corner, and the blame for its escaping is laid upon both the Fayette County Gas Company and the sewers.

A hose cart from the Borough building arrived before the alarm was sounded several minutes up for the cart as soon as the explosion occurred. A hose was turned into the cellar and the fire subdued within a short time. Ropes were stretched along the street to keep the people back, and about a thousand of them were gathered on Broadway and Pittsburgh street watching the place.

Reach Basketball Guide is Out

The official basketball guide of the A. J. Reach Company is now out and contains much interesting information concerning the game. It is to be regretted that the Connellsville team is not shown by a better picture. Some one worked off an old Greensburg photograph on the Reach guide.

President William J. Schaffer of the Eastern League is editor of the Guide. He advocates the formation of a National Commission to govern basketball and regards the Central league as the only stumbling block. President Leithhead of the Central should give this matter serious attention. With every club in the Central league owning its own hall and having considerable money invested, it is to their interests to get the game on a sound business basis.

While attendance in the Central league is good, nearly every team is being "held up" for excessive salaries by players who threaten to play in either the Eastern or Hudson River leagues unless they get their price. All three leagues should organize in such a manner as to put an end to contract jumping. As the Central league has generally encouraged this practice, bringing stars from the east season after season, it should take the first step to put an end to a habit which is seriously endangering the financial success of every club.

For the First Time That We Know of Women Have Choice of 54 Tailored Suits Worth $45 Down to $25 for $19.75==Friday and Saturday.

Eastern styles advance westward and "get there" a season late. An up-to-date westerner pursued that line of reasoning and ordered more than half a hundred tailored suits made in advance of the prevailing styles. The garments were exquisitely tailored; skirts that had a shade more goods in them were modestly pleated and those that were made in another style had front and back panels. The coats were just a little longer—but not much more—than the styles that now hold forth.

His first shipment arrived, were shown and—not accepted by the women who set the styles in his community. Tighter skirt and shorter coat models were having their day, just then. Being quick to perceive, as well as up to the moment, willing to take styles as they came instead of trying to advance them, he cancelled the rest of his order at a loss rather than have garments on hand that "hadn't arrived yet."

Up to the present time we've sent several special orders through our New York office for suits that differed, in detail only, from the way these suits were made. Put two and two together and you have the rest of the story. The New York office knew our needs and brought this cancelled order to our buyers attention. He went, saw a bargain and brought it home to you. Value considered, it's the biggest thing we ever did—selling advance style tailored suits worth $45, $40, $37.50, $35, $30, $25 for $19.75. 54 suits for 54 wide-awake women—on sale Friday morning—and Saturday, if any are left.

Colors You'll Want

Black, navy, grey, fawn, mode, wisteria, blue with white stripes, brown with black checks, black flecked with white mixtures.

Tailoring

For the very reason that a severely tailored suit requires the highest art of the cutter, we lay particular stress upon the value you get for $19.75.

Each one man tailored, hand finished and beautifully worked out—no trimming to cover up a defect here, a miscut there. Suits as carefully, skillfully tailored and cloths and linings of as excellent quality as if you in person selected the stuffs and was measured by a custom tailor.

Today and All Week--Formal Opening of Art Needle Shop Sixth Floor

A display of such infinite daintiness as beggars description! And one rich in suggestions for gifts for the wee little tot or the grandmother of "three score and ten" for brides, debutantes, birthdays and Christmas. Stamped patterns for embroidery, exquisitely embroidered pieces. And—needlework fair of the best work accomplished by the women of Connellsville! Decorative pieces, lingerie and garments for underwear. This event, coming more than two months before Christmas is for inspiration that will be effective about holiday time. The pieces you purchase range from simple little finished-at-sitting size dollies to big, lace bordered centerpieces on which some woman's needle will paint—in damo nature's own colorings—great pinky-purple orchids with their long "eups" padded to a lifelike hollow.

Note—New plain or fancy woven stamped buck towels to be worked in the most recent color scheme, pink, or blue or yellow. All the fabrics you've ever heard of are here, sold by the yard; all the best threads and every requirement for needlework is fitted in to complete our stock.

The needlework entered in the prize exhibit will be judged Friday afternoon from 2 till 1 o'clock. Needlework is shown in our windows today, and may be seen from the street until Friday.

New Assortment Royal Society Package Goods

57 designs to be worked; each in a separate package containing the stamped fabric, sufficient thread in the proper color, instructions and a diagram. The price range for the packages are 25c for a telephone pad or a baby's cap, to $1.00 for a night gown or a 22x34 inch library scarf. Finished pieces of each design are on display.

In Floor Coverings the Wright-Metzler Store Serves Best.

The fall stocks are very heavy—and the carpet and rug designers have developed their art. On Wednesday several bales of new room-size rugs were opened and put in stock. They came to us underprice and we'll sell them for about what any store must pay for like quality. You will pay about wholesale prices. The reason? The syndicate, of which we are members have been gathering patterns that are dropped from the mill's catalog. No other store in town can buy-in that fashion and—get the price. The syndicate represents 69 other stores. See the advantage?

Sunday School Work in the Morgan Valley

Special to The Courier.
OWENSDALE, Oct. 11.—The Sunday school work along the Morgan valley has made magnificent strides during the past several years under the untiring leadership of a number of church people associated with the Fayette County Sunday School Association. Several new Sunday schools and new districts for Sunday school work established. On several occasions those at the head of the movement have secured permission to use the district school houses in which to hold the meetings. At these places no line is drawn on creed or church denominations but a cordial invitation extended to whosoever will come. On the records of the association these Union Sunday schools show an excellent record in accordance to the community in which it is located. With the help of these Union Sunday schools the churches of the Morgan valley keep in close touch with every family within its radius.

Two of the best of these Union Sunday schools are the Morgan Station school, which meets in the school house at that place, and the Bellevue school which is held in the Bellevue school house, a mile or so east of Morgan, and but a short distance from Coalbrook. The churches have also joined in the forward movement in the endeavor thoroughly to keep in touch with every person in the scope of each church. The motto adopted in a general way by these valiant workers is "Better Work."

HANDICAPPED.

This is the Case With Many Connellsville People.

Too many Connellsville citizens are handicapped with a bad back. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stopping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Pinners and liniment may give relief, but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys. Don's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently.

The following statement should convince every Connellsville reader of their efficacy.
David Griffiths, 116 Pittsburg street, Scottdale, Pa., says: "You are welcome to continue the publication of the statement I gave in praise of Don's Kidney Pills in Oct. 1907. I am always glad to recommend this remedy. I had a constant pain across the small of my back and I was often so lame and sore that I could scarcely get about. The kidney secretions were sometimes profuse, then again scanty and distressing. Nothing helped me until I began using Don's Kidney Pills. I am grateful for the improvement this splendid medicine has made."
